

Legal Advocacy

PADA advocates can assist with various questions and concerns with the legal system. First, it is important to note that we are not attorneys and cannot give legal advice. However, we can explain court processes, assist with paperwork and filing documents, attend court with victims of abuse, and make legal referrals. We are able to help with restraining orders, family cases (such as divorce and custody and placement), and criminal cases.